WHITE PLAINS

A lawguit of a sort which has been rare in this State was decided in the County Court of Westchester County vesterday. The plaintiff was Mary Herrman and the defendant Emma O. Sarles. They are neighbors living in the town of New Castle, near Mount Kisco. A servant of the defendant was burning some brush, and some sparks fell upon the barn of the plaintiff, setting fire to it and burning it to the ground. Mrs. Herrman then sued Mrs. Sarles for damages for the loss of the barn and its contents. It took two days to try the case, and the jury gave the plaintiff $250, less the insurance, which amounted to $100.

Upon reading the affidavit of Francis M. Carpenter, County Treasurer of Westchester County, from which it appeared that the sum of $100-429.00 had been deposited in his office in the matter of the village of White Plains acquiring title to the White Plains Waterworks, and that no depository had been designated by the Controller other than the White Plains Bank, which is not entitled to receive a sum so large as that, and the County Treasurer
having asked for a special order designating a depository for the money, Justice Keosh vesterday ordered that the Westchester County Trust Company be designated as the depository for the money and the County Treasurer is ordered to deposit it therein in his name as County Treasurer, to the credit of the parties named in the proceeding, and subject to the further order of the Supreme Court.

berry-st., drew a revover last night in a quarrel at the corner of Canal and Mulberry sts with Tony Baron, another Italian of his own age, he pointed the weapon directly in Baron's face and pulled the trigger twice in rapid succession.

As Baron, with a yell, fell to the sidewalk, Forlange fired another shot, but this one went wide, seed before the crowd which had heard the shots, had time to de anything the would-be murderer was out ake the wind.

Some of the crowd picked up the wounded man, while others gave chase to the feeing Italian, who sped down Mulberry-st, turned east into Bayard-st, and then, with the smoking revolver still in his grasp, turned the corner into Mott-st, down which he ran. Nearly a thousand persons had now joined in the chase, and pieces of brick from an uncompleted building nearby, were hurled at the Italian, and shouts of "Murder!" Police: "Help" and "Stop him!" rent the air.

Alexander Anthony, forty-two years old, of No. 18 Pell-st, saw the man coming, and, jumping out into the street, threw his arms about him to stop him. This act will probably cost Anthony his life, as the Italian placed the revolver at Anthony's abdomen and fired. Anthony fell to the ground, mortally wounded, and with Baron was removed to the Hudson Street Hospital.

The Coroner was called to take his ante-mortem statement, and Forlange was locked up in the Elizabeth-st, police statton.

Mrs. Ingersell attended, how-ever, and Mr. Hummel read the eulogy Colonel dreds are well and happy now because he lived. This is enough. This pure a star above the gloom of death, he was not quite fashboned for this world. This proposition is unsound according to the uni-form practice and theory of the State Department, and the German Ambussador has not made any such demand.

It is not denied, however, that Germany might claim and procure the benefits of any reduction in the tartiff dues accorded to France under the reci-procity sections of the Dingley Tartiff act if she cares to enter into a reciprocity arrangement of her own on similar terms, and there is some crasson to expect that this result may be obtained in the course of a few months.

WEBER & FIELDS'S MUSIC HALL.

The season began at Weber & Fields's Music Hall last evening with a performance of the sort which to prove as popular as any of the previous ones.

And that is saying a good deal. The title of the performance was "Hurly Burly." Its character cannot be described better than in the words of the The words were by Harry B Smith and Edgar Smith, and the music was by John Stromberg. At many points it was an obvious imitation of the previous efforts at this house, but perhaps the audience liked it all the better for that.

The piece contained some pretty music and a fair smount of wit; it employed the services of several favorite actors, and it evidently enriched the cosfavorite actors, and it evidently enriched the cos-tumer to a considerable extent. A darky song i sembling "How i Love My Lou," which was one of the most popular features of the entertainments at this house last year, proved a good successor to that ditty and the most successful bit of the cal part. Among the actors who were received with especial favor were Charles J. Ross, Joseph Weber, "Lou" Fields, David Warfield, Peter F. Dalley, John T. Kelly, Miss Mabel Fenton and Miss Rose Beaumont.

Beaumont.

One of the most amusing features of the whole affair was the cast, as set forth on the programme. Here, for instance, are the names of a group of Romans. Spurins Cassins, Gratulius Omnibus, Penurius Incubus Infamus Scandalus, Mutinus Cancus, Frivolus Titus. The audience packed every corner of the house. The spectators seemed to be thoroughly satisfied, and if the managers were not they are hard to please. By Bookstaver, J.
